

THE SCRIBE

Vol. X No. 3 • September 27, 1990

PRESIDENT GREENWOOD MEETS WITH INDIVIDUAL COLLEGES!!!

by Ben Estefani

Monday, September 24th, President Janet Greenwood, the administration, the administration's lawyer, the provosts and the executive staff of the Student Council were all on a panel in the Bernhard Center's Mertens Theater. They were there to discuss with the colleges of Arts and Humanities (including Basic Studies), Science and Engineering, Health and Human Services, and Business and Public Management their academic future.

The main purpose of the "convocations" were so that the students could be informed about what is going on with their university from the administration's side. The Student Council executive staff as well as the students at the meetings asked questions directed to President Greenwood and her panel about the students' future and the university's future. The majority of students took advantage of the opportunity to talk or listen to what the administration had to say.

At the Arts and Humanities meeting, Provost, Sarah Melendez stated that there are 23 full time faculty teachers in the Arts and Humanities college. She also stated that by Wednesday Sept. 26th all positions should be filled in the Arts and Humanities college. As stated Monday by Mrs. Melendez, the Calligraphy course will be held next semester. Cinema, Design, FM, Music, Sociology, Languages, Mass Communications and Theater majors are all operational. English is 60% to 70% covered (Basic Composition is filled). History is basically fully operational, if not this semester then by Spring semester. Philosophy is practically filled. In Political Science there are no new replacements. And Psychology is 70% covered (by next semester should be definitely filled). She is hoping at least 75% to 85% of the Arts and Humanities courses should be fully operational by the end of the week.

As for the qualifications of these new replacements, each has gone through the basic standard hiring procedures by Sarah Melendez. They should be able to carry on a course without any problems. If so, as a student you should inform the administration of any problems, just as if it was a normal semester.

What the administration is emphasizing is that students must register for classes or they can not figure out who is in class and who is not, because most of their problem is that students withdraw from a class and wait in class but are not registered. That causes a problem in estimating how many students are in each course and if the administration should have a professor in that course. So REGISTER!!!

Administration is asking if professors are meeting with their classes. If not please let them know.

Sean Woodard, asked about the moral of the students to Dr. Greenwood. Her answer was, that enrollment will be a challenge and that everyone has to work together to be the "Second Founders" of the University of Bridgeport. We can make this school what we want for a better UB.

The Students, the new faculty, and the administration must work together to provide all of us with a school we can all be proud of. You see it does not have to be the beginning of the end, but the beginning of the new University of Bridgeport. Like Sarah Melendez stated to the students at the Art and Humanities meeting, "We all must give a little".

This article is basically about the Arts and Humanities College due to the fact that it was the only one that could be covered of the four other meetings.

The Add/Drop deadline is September 28th according to the September 25th meeting.

STUDENT COUNCIL LEADERSHIP RETREAT

by

Gwendolyn K. McDonald

On September 21 through September 23, the Student Leadership Retreat took place. The annual retreat, which emphasized student development, officially began Friday evening due to Rosh Hashanah. Various organizations on campus were represented by presidents or representatives of that organization.

The retreat was held at the Wisdom House, a retreat site in Litchfield, Connecticut. Those who attended were pleased with the agenda for the weekend and many expressed a desire to return next year, if not sooner. Robert Bocampiani, Senator of the College of Business and Public Management, pointed out that he had various responsibilities back on campus, but nevertheless it was a great idea to remove ourselves from campus in order to attend to the agenda at hand. Many of those who attended were of the same opinion.

"It was a great opportunity for students to take a step away from everyday activities. When you have become accustomed to the same activities, it is good to take a step back and see what others are doing", says Suzanne Clark, Senior Class President.

This was the real spirit of the weekend. Stepping back and observing ourselves as well as focusing on the purpose of the group. The activities of the weekend included team building, a self checklist and group skits, to name a few. Though the activities were fun in nature, they all had an underlying lesson to teach. The group, through activities, learned to trust each other and each group member learned something constructive about himself/herself.

"Through the self checklist", says Shani Darby, Student Council Treasurer, "I learned something very important about myself. Though I perceive my self as one way, people often perceive me in a totally different way. It is always beneficial to know what others think of you."

The retreat focused on different techniques to improve the effectiveness of student leaders. The assistances for the weekend, Larry Mahon and Gina Tymphony said that in planning the activities for the retreat, they had hoped to help the students establish a sense of goal, to bring them together to work together as a team, to motivate them in order to motivate others, to teach them to be objective, but make healthy decisions and develop a structure so that they may better serve students. The goal of the retreat was to strengthen the students' leadership qualities to focus on real issues and where Student Council stands in addressing them.

It was quite evident that the goals that were set for the weekend were met. Students showed a sense of satisfaction and accomplishment. Sean Woodard, Senator of College of Arts and Humanities, felt that the weekend was good in its purpose.

"It was very informative thus we hope to have a smoother Student Council." In addition, Sean said "that it was interesting to see different interpretations of how the administration and faculty are running things. While looking from the outside, we can get an accurate assessment of what is going on. Though Wisdom House was not a vacation resort, it was personal and comfortable."

Students expressed a great relief that members of the administration and faculty were not present during the weekend. Although Dean Dan Stracka was originally scheduled to attend the retreat, he honored Student Council's request when they asked him not to attend. Members of the group agreed that Larry Mahon, Gina Tymphony, and Student Council Advisor Timothy Solomon could offer objective views since they are either new to the university or not members of the faculty or administration. It was easier for everyone to express their frustrations and it gave everyone a chance to become better acquainted and build stronger bonds. "Now we know each other as individuals and not just by the position that he/she represents on council" says Suzanne Clark. Hakan Dulge, Representative for the International Relations Club, says that this was his first experience of this type. He feels that he has improved his skills in understanding body language, he can now deal with disappointments better, and he can be more trusting of others.

This was a most effective weekend and all those present had something positive to offer the group. Student Council members are hopeful that this retreat is the beginning of a bright and successful school year.

News

New Computer Lab
at CBPM

by Matt Steiger

Over the summer two rooms on the second floor of Mandeville Hall were remodelled thanks to donations by Mr. Mellon of Town Fair Tire and Southern New England Telephone (SNET). Both rooms have been carpeted, painted, and rewired for the computers. Although there are no new computers yet, Dean Kalogarus, hopes to have 40 new computers and printers by January of 1991. The 40 new computers will be IBM's PS2's model 55sx with Windows 3.0 operating systems, Word, work processing and Excel spread sheets.

Presently, there are 18 computers that have been relocated from the old computer lab, which has been converted back to classroom space.

The new set up will enable computer classes to be taught in the lab and allow students hands on use during class time, while the professor lectures and supervises. This also gives students the opportunity to ask questions as they occur and not have to wait until the next class. When not used as a classroom the lab will be open for student use.

The Dean is hoping that accounting firms and alumni will come forward and donate the 40 computers he needs to meet his goal by January 1991. By adding 40 new computers, the total number of computers available for students use at the College of Business and Public Management will be 58 by the spring semester.

TEMPORARY IMPRESSION (OF LONG ISLAND SOUND)

The sound takes me away
It captures me
At a time when
The outlook is uncertain

Its beauty takes hold of me
Transports me
To a calm thought
For a brief moment each day

And that is all I need to get by

Chris Dina 1990

ADVANTAGEOUS
Keep in mind
That there are others
Whose lives may need
Much more help than yours.
We may say
Our lives seem to fall apart
But many others only dream of having what many of us do.
Many of us
Pass that plastic card
Across the counter
To pay with convenience.
Many of us
Adjust the heater or fan
When we feel
The need to be comfortable.
Many of us
Can choose our clothes
From a full closet -
Instead of a dumpster.
Many of us
Have others to turn to
When we need to talk
Or just to not be alone.
Many of us
See the people
Curled up in newspapers
Scrunched up by a building not realizing
How easy it would be
For one of us
To be one of them.

BY CAROLE KNOBLAUCH

THE SCRIBE

Publisher:
University of Bridgeport

Co-Managing Editors:
Matt Steiger
Ben Estefani

Layout Editor:
Brian Uricchio

Copy Editor:
Jim Cockerle

Entertainment Editor:
Gabe Sano

Staff:
Gwen McDonald
Carole Knoblauch
Marjie Dumorny
Omer Sohail
Starlett

The Scribe is published weekly during the school year (except during vacation periods) by students at the University of Bridgeport. All writing and editing is done by students at 244 University Avenue, Bridgeport, CT 06601. Publication No. 609-840.

Letters submitted and printed in the "Letters to the Editor" section of The Scribe do not reflect in any way the opinions or attitudes of The Scribe's publisher, editorial board or other staff members. The Scribe reserves the right to edit all letters. All letters must be free of libel.

Dear Students of University of Bridgeport,

Are you sick of the mess the strikers are leaving on our campus? Do you want to do something about it? Are you sick of the bull horn, their singing? Concern Students call x 4382. Maybe we students can solve this problem after all, this is our school, too.

THE BLUE COMET

by Jess

Entertainment

Dear Starlett:

A Weekly advice column

Dear Starlett:

I read your column and I thought that you offered great advice so I've decided to write you. I hope that you can help me with my problem. I am a junior and I hate my roommate. I feel like killing her and several times I have come very close to it. She is such a whining brat and she always wants her own way. She does not realize that there are two people in the room and things can not always go her way. Oh, yes, by the way she is a freshman!! I have told her several times that I am a junior and I will not tolerate her babyish and immature attitude. When I come into the room and she is watching My TV she expects me to wait until she is done. The bottom line is that it is my TV and I don't have to wait for anyone to do anything if it belongs to me. The next problem is that she's always blabbing about something. She doesn't realize that I don't want to be bothered and furthermore if they had given me my own room right from the beginning I wouldn't have to be bothered. This girl is driving me crazy. Please help me find a way to get rid of her!!!

Signed Desperate

Dear Desperate,

Correct me if I'm wrong, but I sense a bit of resentment on your part. You haven't really pointed out anything concrete that your roommate is doing to make your life miserable. It seems to me that you may be frustrated and angry because you weren't given your own room. You say that your roommate is a brat, but just because she doesn't voluntarily hand the TV over to you when you walk in doesn't make her a brat. I think that you should show a little consideration and be honest with yourself. Is she really the problem, or are you causing problems? You shouldn't direct your anger towards an innocent person. It isn't her fault that you don't have a room of your own. I think if you give your roommate half a chance, the two of you could have a healthy friendship. But first be true to yourself. You are older than she is and you should be able to deal with an undesirable situation. If you decide that she is really the problem, then instead of concentrating on getting rid of her, you should just move out.

Dear Starlett,

I realize that you are a student here and you are probably experiencing the same frustrations, but I am totally stressed out concerning this strike business. I am a senior and more than anything in this world, I want to graduate in May on time. I know there is not much you can do, for there is not much any of us can do. But I'm thinking of withdrawing because this what I've been told is the best thing to do. What do you think?

An Upset Senior

Dear Senior:

I can identify with your frustrations, but my advice is for you to do what you feel is in your best interest. I do not advise that you make any rushed decision of uninformed decision. You have said that more than anything, you would like to graduate in May, on time. Well, if you withdraw now, you will not only not graduate, but you will needlessly throw a whole semester away. You can't live your life based on what might happen. Yes, it is a good idea to stay informed, but at least you do have a chance if you stay and wait it out like the rest of us. If you bail out now, you won't even have that chance. Have a little faith in the administration. But ultimately you must make an informed decision, which reflects the interests of your future.

"BILLY IDOL, REBEL AND ENTERTAINER EXTRODINAIRE"

by Gabe Sasso

I went to the Byrne Arena last Friday to see Billy Idol in concert. I entered the show as a fan of Billy's and I left a disciple. He was that good. Smoke pumped out as Billy entered through a door on the right of the ornately decorated stage. The display consisted mainly of elements from the cover of his new album "Charmed Life." But it also included other things, such as pictures of scantily clad women and a huge skull in the middle of it all.

But getting to the business at hand the show was phenomenal. He opened up with "Cradle of Love," which immediately set the crowd off in a frenzy. Along the way he cranked out "White Wedding", "Pumping on Steel", "L.A. Woman", "Eyes Without a Face", "Flesh For Fantasy", "Mony Mony", "Rebel Yell" and a particularly stunning rendition of "Hot In The City." For his final encore he brought the house down with an inspiring and emotion filled version of "To Be a Lover."

One of the many highlights of Billy's tour de force came as he was doing an introduction for "L.A. Woman." The lights went out, and when they came back on a few minutes later there was a giant blowup doll on stage which took up about three quarters of the stage. Billy joked about being able to satisfy her and then punched up a glowing tribute to Jim Morrison, via his titillating cover of the Doors classic "L.A. Woman."

Billy chatted with the crowd a bit as the night went on. He talked about the motorcycle accident and how traumatic it was. He also mentioned that he thought they were going to have to amputate his leg, but it turned out instead that they had the technology to rebuild him. We should all be thankful that Billy is healthy. There aren't too many entertainers today who are as energetic, enthusiastic and so obviously happy to be performing as Mr. Idol.

By the time the show came to a close everyone including the blow up doll was satisfied. Billy Idol's performance was a testament to all the fans who flocked back to his fold after his four year absence from the scene.

He seemed to be thanking his fans for skyrocketing him right back to the forefront of the music world. If Billy had been attending the show I think he would have said it was "Bloody Fantastic." He would be right. The man is an innovator and a force to be reckoned with. Besides that the guy has class! More power to you Billy.

New York Happenings - Baja

by Matt Steiger

Ten Wall Street'ers have combined their efforts to create a new and exciting West Side dance club, Baja at 246A Columbus Avenue. The club's overall theme is tropical, but don't expect anything exciting, nor fancy. It is on the contrary, quite minimalistic and subdued.

The club feels more like a college frat house, only bigger and minus the threat of being shut down by the police. You won't find any of the wild club kids that frequent the clubs in the Village, only preppy college students.

There is plenty of room to sit and drink around the three bars. You can hang out in either the Beach Bar or the Big Kahuna Room. The dance floor is big and the music is loud. Baja is open from Tuesday to Sunday at 10 PM and admission is $10.00.

A lot of campus rapes start here.

Whenever there's drinking or drugs, things can get out of hand. So it's no surprise that many campus rapes involve alcohol. But you should know that under any circumstances, sex without the other person's consent is considered rape. A felony, punishable by prison. And drinking is no excuse. That's why, when you party, it's good to know what your limits are. You see, a little sobering thought now can save you from a big problem later.

Entertainment

JUST FOR THE HEALTH OF IT

The University Health and Wellness Center is located at 85 Park Avenue and is open from 8:30 am to 10:00 pm, Monday through Friday, during the academic year. The Center is closed on weekends and holidays.

A variety of services are available to students and include immediate care for illnesses and injuries, complete physical examinations, immunizations, allergy shots, medications, sports physicals, gynecological examinations, pregnancy tests, cultures, laboratory studies, counseling services, and more. Appointments are needed only for complete physicals or GYN examinations. Students ill enough to be monitored through the night will be admitted to Park City Hospital and treated by the University physician. Doctor's Hours at the Health and Wellness Center are:

| | | | |
|-----------|----------|---|----------|
| Monday | 9:00 am | - | 11:00 am |
| Tuesday | 11:00 am | - | 1:00 pm |
| Wednesday | 10:00 am | - | 12:00 pm |
| Thursday | 6:00 pm | - | 8:00 pm |
| Friday | 1:00 pm | - | 3:00 pm |

If you have not already done so, please bring your health record and proof of immunity to measles and rubella to the Health and Wellness Center as soon as possible.

All full-time undergraduates and international students are automatically billed for accident and sickness insurance. Law, graduate, and part-time students may apply for coverage by contacting their account representative in the Bursar's office. Applications for family coverage and waivers are also available at the Bursar's office.

Please stop by the Health and Wellness Center if you have any questions. Remember, contents of your health record are confidential and in no way affect your college standing.

Look It's In The Air...

WRUB ON CAMPUS RADIO

Many DJ Spots are open.
For more information, call x2800, ask for Gabe.

Personals

Hey George...I mean Frank...I mean "Old McDonald has a farm!" (Really, he does!) E-I, E-I, BAAAAH!

Rob STAY AWAY FROM TEQUILA
Val STAY AWAY FROM GRAIN
Mary STAY AWAY FROM IT ALL

Stephanie and Mary
Congratulations - Don't let anyone stop you now!
- Matt

Richel, Gabe, Jen, Mike:
Let's go Bar hopping again real soon!
- Matt

To S.K.
We had a blast! Thanks for the great gossip.
-W.M.

D.J. Smoosh(I mean D.J. Smash)
How are your Ramen noodles doing?
-You'll never guess who

To R.A.K.
After all, there is some truth to "it"
-R.A.M.

Ben -
Check with Webster's for a definition of deadline, 'cause you got it all wrong man!

To the faculty strikers -
What happened to the great caricatures on the daily comedy flyers you hand us?

Internal Affairs

Thursday 8:00 and 10:30
Sunday 8:00 only
Student Center Social Room
$1.99 UBID

House Party
Oct. 4 & 7

The Hunt For Red October
Oct. 11 & 14

Pretty Woman
Oct. 18 & 21

I Love You To Death
Oct. 25 & 28

Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles
Nov. 1 & 4

Dick Tracy
Nov 8 & 11

The Cook, The Thief, His Wife And Her Lover
Nov. 15 & 18

The Adventures OF Ford Fairlane
Nov. 29 & Dec 2

Die Hard II:
Die Harder
Dec. 6 & 9

Another 48 Hours
Dec. 13 & 16

Scribe Meetings 7:30 p.m. Student Center
Deadlines 5 p.m.-Scribe Mailbox
Mandatory Meeting Monday

CHRIS DINA 7/4/90

UB is the Circle one

UNIVERSITY OF BLAME
UNIVERSITY OF BLUNDER
UNIVERSITY OF BREAK-UP
UNIVERSITY OF BUILDINGS
UNIVERSITY OF BRIDGEPORT

JOBS JOBS JOBS

Highly paid part-time student sales and marketing representatives needed immediately by president of large company to market an award winning educational commodity near University of Bridgeport!! Successful sales and marketing representatives will receive $15,000 Academic Scholarships to the college or university of their choice and much more in addition to their weekly paychecks!! Interviews will be held on Thursday, September 27, from 9am - 5pm at Howard Johnson's 2636 South Main ST. Waterbury, CT in the Conference Room #218. Don't miss this golden opportunity to earn good money and get your share of academic scholarships!!